

NAPE OVERVIEW

The nation's leading professional alliance for educational access, equity, and diversity.

About NAPE

The National Alliance for Partnerships in Equity (NAPE) is the nation's leading professional alliance for addressing access, equity, and diversity in secondary and community college education, training, and careers.

We are a membership-based organization of federal and state agencies, local school districts, colleges, universities, businesses, and corporate foundations, and we all share one goal:

To build a world where every student can realize his or her potential in high-wage, high-skill, high-demand careers.

To do this, we focus on increasing the enrollment, retention, and performance of underrepresented students in nontraditional careers through four lines of business.

Professional Development

Professional development is designed to ensure access and equity in programs preparing students for college and careers by providing multiple options for awareness and skill building for educators, administrators, and counselors:

- One- to eight-hour or multiday workshops
- Daylong to yearlong institutional and classroom transformation programs
- Online courses
- Webinars, toolkits, and thousands of effective practice resources from around the nation

Research and Evaluation

A dedication to research and evaluation makes NAPE a leading resource for research-based effective practices and programs for access and equity in education. Partnerships with top research universities and in-house expertise ensures publications are released regularly, a coveted membership benefit.

Technical Assistance

NAPE has the dedicated expertise to provide technical assistance for federal, state, and local education agencies in the areas of career and technical education, STEM education, special populations, civil rights compliance, and equity in education programs.

Public Policy and Advocacy

NAPE's Public Policy team monitors legislation and regulatory policy addressing access, equity, and diversity in classrooms and the workplace. NAPE also maintains an annual public policy agenda; hosts a public policy day on Capitol Hill; and provides monthly members-only e-news updates and legislation-specific webpages.
